

PROSECCO INTO DEEP

REF: TIT/VE11/UK

This excursion is recommended to wine lovers to discover the various production techniques of the most important sparkling wine in Italy: The Prosecco. The Prosecco Road winds through 120km of the hills that joins Valdobbiadene and Conegliano, and drives the visitor through scenery of endless vineyards, villages and little towns that haven't lost the passion for wine-making traditions. We will visit one of the most important Cantina of the area, following a guided visit you get a taste of different Prosecco wine. You can have also the chance to purchase a few bottles of wine before making our way to the enchanting little town of Follina with the ancient 14th century Abbey. Built on a former Benedictine abbey in the twelfth century building, the present Follina Abbey (1305 Abbot Walter of Lodi - 1335 Abbot Nordio Treviso) shows the typical construction plant with the Latin west facing façade and the apse facing east just as symbolism involved the Cistercian. After free time in Follina just sit back and enjoy the views during the return to Venice.
